Our rating ★★★★★☆

With the quality of social care in the UK currently under debate, Bettercaring has hit a timely moment to relaunch. Aimed at those looking for care, or needing answers to questions on the subject, this free online service provides a directory of more than 20,000 registered care and nursing homes across the UK. Its new look is designed to build a web community where carers, residents and professionals can discuss issues such as dementia, bed availability and funding. The site offers lots of other useful information, including accounts from people who care for loved ones, all delivered with an attractive and accessible design.
